

Samuel Reeves currently serves as the Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Walmart International. Sam has been a member of Walmart's in-house legal team since 2002, when he joined the company as a Senior Division Counsel in the Tort section of the Legal Department's Litigation Division.

Most recently, Sam held the position of Senior Vice President and General Counsel supporting Walmart US Stores division. In his previous roles, Sam was Vice-President, General Counsel- Employment Practices, and Vice-President, General Counsel- Corporate Affairs and Government Relations.

Prior to joining Walmart, Sam clerked for Arkansas Supreme Court Justice Tom Glaze and then practiced law in Bentonville, Arkansas for eleven years. He earned his J.D. from the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, William H. Bowen School of Law, and his bachelor's degree from the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville.