

Kathleen Gasparian limits her practice to Immigration and Nationality Law. She obtained her J.D. in 2002 from Loyola University, New Orleans. She was then selected for the Attorney General's Honors Program and served as a judicial law clerk for the Executive Office for Immigration Review. Ms. Gasparian is active in the American Immigration Lawyer's Association (AILA) having served as the Chair and Treasurer of AILA's Mid-South Chapter, and as the chair of AILA's national liaison committee to the Executive Office for Immigration Review. She regularly serves as an expert speaker at AILA, NAFSA, and other continuing legal education conferences. Ms. Gasparian has authored and co-authored a number of articles on immigration including "An Immigration Primer for Primary and Secondary Schools" in The Admissions Review, and "Adjustment of Status for the Atypical Entrant" in the 2012 Immigration Practice Pointers, published by AILA. Gambit News, the alternative weekly in New Orleans, named her "40 under 40" for her success as an attorney.

Ms. Gasparian is proud to serve as a Regulatory Ombudsperson for Scholar Issues for NAFSA Region III, on the Board for the New Orleans Chapter of the Federal Bar Association, and as an Adjunct Professor of Immigration Law at Loyola University, New Orleans. In 2014, she founded a program to match immigrant children with pro bono legal representation - PB&J: Pro Bono and Juveniles.
